CollectPlus announces partnership with online personal shopping service Enclothed

08 JANUARY 2016: Enclothed, the online personal shopping service for men, has partnered with CollectPlus, the UK's largest independent store-based delivery and returns service, to offer its customers free returns from their local newsagent or convenience store.

Enclothed is the bespoke clothing service that offers a personally curated box of outfits to men, aged 27 to 55, who are too busy to shop but want to look good. Enclothed's in-house stylists, build a style profile based upon the clothing preferences of each customer, sending them a box of clothing to try on at home or in the office. The customer keeps what he likes and sends back anything that isn't quite right. Over time, the stylist builds up a detailed picture of each customer's sartorial choices and is able to fulfil their requirements better each time.

Enclothed was launched just under two years ago by Levi Young, daughter of singer Paul Young and Dana Zingher. After securing and subsequently turning down a £70,000 investment on Dragons' Den, the co-founders chose to crowdfund the project instead, raising £640,000 from 425 investors in just eight days.

The CollectPlus returns service lets customers return the unwanted items for free, at a time and place that suits them, from any of the 5,800 local convenience stores, newsagents and petrol stations in the CollectPlus network, many of which are open early 'til late, seven days a week.

Paul Scratchley, Commercial Director at CollectPlus said: "We are excited to announce a new partnership with Enclothed, a brand which can only be described as a pioneering online menswear retailer. In an age of ever changing fashion trends, shoppers demand choice and convenience and customers increasingly value our returns offer. The unique service offered by Enclothed gives shoppers access to an excellent range of men's fashion brands, allowing them to try clothes on in the comfort of their own home. We look forward to providing Enclothed's customers with a simple way to send back the items they decide not to keep."

Levi Young, Co-Founder of Enclothed said: "An uncomplicated and convenient returns process is key to our personalised shopping experience. Our partnership with CollectPlus will help give our customers more choice, allowing them to return unwanted purchases to a convenient location at a time that fits in with their busy lifestyles."

The CollectPlus service has been tailored to suit the needs of modern consumers, to whom time is increasingly valuable, and efficiency and cost are key. 90% of the UK population live within a mile of a CollectPlus store in urban areas and 89% within five miles in rural areas, meaning that CollectPlus customers can enjoy the same convenience no matter where they live.

CollectPlus offers a simple and convenient way for people to collect online purchases from or return unwanted items to more than 300 high street and online retailers, including John Lewis, House of Fraser and ASOS. It also offers a convenient way to send parcels.

Alongside convenience, a high level of customer satisfaction continues to be at the heart of the CollectPlus offer. At present, 82% of TrustPilot reviews rate the CollectPlus service as five star with customers considering the CollectPlus service to be 'excellent' in TrustPilot terms.

Founded in 2009, CollectPlus is a joint venture between PayPoint, the leading retail payment network, and Yodel, the UK's leading independent parcel carrier.
