PayPoint and ACS team up on Assured Advice

2 January 2018: PayPoint has announced a new partnership with the Association of Convenience Stores (ACS) to make their Assured Advice programme available to all retailers via their PayPoint One platform. Retailers can access industry leading support on all aspects of regulatory compliance for convenience retailing via their device or the PayPoint website. The ACS are the voice of over 33,500 local shops and offer comprehensive advice as part of their Assured Advice guides and Training Scheme.

Steve O'Neill, Group Marketing Director at PayPoint, commented: "The ACS is a fantastic organisation providing industry leading support for convenience retailers. Working together with the ACS on their Assured Advice programme is a natural partnership that supports our commitment to helping independent retailers improve their businesses alongside our continued focus on innovative services that provide a platform for growth for stores across the UK."

James Lowman, Chief Executive of ACS, said that "We are delighted to be working with PayPoint to utilise their in-store technology, giving retailers and their colleagues the power to access up-to-date advice and guidance from the shop floor. Adding ACS Assured Advice to the PayPoint One platform gives retailers further support and access to information about how they can stay on the right side of the rules and regulations affecting their business".
